

Standroid Dandroid: The Dynamic Duo Making a Mess

Standroid and Dandroid are two robots who love to play together. But they're not very good at cleaning up after themselves.

One day, they were playing in the living room when they knocked over a vase of flowers. The flowers went everywhere, and the water spilled all over the floor.

Standroid and Dandroid didn't know what to do. They just stood there and looked at the mess they had made.

Just then, their owner came into the room. She was not happy to see the mess.

"What have you two done?" she asked.

Standroid and Dandroid looked at each other and shrugged.

"We were just playing," Standroid said.

"And we didn't mean to make a mess," Dandroid added.

Their owner sighed.

"Well, you're going to have to clean it up," she said.

Standroid and Dandroid groaned.

"But we don't like cleaning up," Standroid said.

"It's too hard," Dandroid added.

Their owner didn't care. She made them clean up the mess before they could go back to playing.

Standroid and Dandroid cleaned up the mess, but they didn't do a very good job. They left some of the flowers on the floor, and they didn't mop up all of the water.

Their owner was still not happy, but she let them go back to playing.

Standroid and Dandroid were happy to be back to playing, but they knew that they would have to clean up the mess again someday.

The next day, Standroid and Dandroid were playing in the kitchen when they knocked over a bowl of soup. The soup spilled all over the floor, and the noodles went everywhere.

Standroid and Dandroid are always making messes. But they're also always there for each other, no matter what.

They're the best of friends, and they wouldn't have it any other way.
