Linda Johnston is a pioneer in the field of dog training and safety. She is the founder of Trained to Protect, a global leader in personal protection, detection, and obedience training. With over 30 years of experience, Linda has trained thousands of dogs and their owners, helping them to live safer and more fulfilling lives.

Linda's Journey to Dog Training

Linda's passion for dogs began at a young age. She grew up on a farm, where she was surrounded by animals. She loved to spend time with the dogs, and she quickly learned how to communicate with them and train them.

In her early 20s, Linda began working as a dog trainer at a local kennel. She quickly realized that she had a natural talent for training dogs. She was able to teach dogs of all ages and breeds to perform a variety of tasks, from basic obedience to advanced protection work.

Founding Trained to Protect

In 1990, Linda founded Trained to Protect. Her goal was to create a dog training company that would provide the highest quality training available. She wanted to help people to train their dogs to become reliable partners and protectors.

Over the years, Trained to Protect has grown into one of the most respected dog training companies in the world. Linda and her team of trainers have trained thousands of dogs for a variety of purposes, including personal protection, detection, and obedience.

Linda's Training Philosophy

Linda believes that positive reinforcement is the most effective way to train dogs. She uses a variety of rewards, such as treats, toys, and praise, to motivate dogs to learn new behaviors.

Linda also believes that it is important to train dogs in real-world situations. She takes her clients and their dogs to a variety of locations, such as parks, shopping malls, and even police stations, to help them practice the skills they have learned.

Linda's Commitment to Safety

Linda is a strong advocate for dog safety. She believes that all dogs should be trained to be safe and responsible members of the community.

Linda and her team of trainers offer a variety of safety programs, including:

- Puppy socialization classes
- Basic obedience classes
- Personal protection classes
- Detection classes
- Safety seminars

Linda is also a member of the International Association of Canine Professionals (IACP) and the National Association of Professional Dog Trainers (NAPDT). She is committed to upholding the highest standards of dog training and safety.

Linda's Legacy

Linda Johnston is a true pioneer in the field of dog training and safety. She has dedicated her life to helping people to train their dogs to become reliable partners and protectors.

Linda's legacy will continue to inspire and educate dog owners for generations to come.
